FAYETTEVILLE OBSERVER.

[VOL. XLII.] FAYETTEVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA, OCTOBER 31, 1859. [NO. 2213.]

The State Fair.—The result of this annual exhibition may be best gathered from the following statistics:

The number of annual members enrolled was 645 against 680 in 1858, and 576 in 1857. Total amount of receipts $3,400, against $3,000 in 1858, $2,700 in 1857. Amount received at the gate and for single admissions, on Thursday, $946, against $900 in 1858—so that a much larger number of persons visited the fair grounds on that day than on the corresponding day of the Fair of 1858, when the number was estimated at from 7,000 to 8,000.

A comparison of the number of lots of articles on exhibition with that of the two last Fairs, will also show a favorable result, as follows:

	1859.	1858.	1857.
Live Stock,	252	229	203
Planter's Hall,	246	200	144
Mechanic's Hall,	305	321	170
Floral Hall,	541	513	319
	1344	1263	836

These figures exhibit the gratifying fact of a steady rate of progress in the interest manifested in the State Fair, whilst the improvement in the various departments of industry was so marked as to be apparent to the most casual observer.

North Carolina Goods.—The cheapest gentlemen's wear, in our market, is of North Carolina manufacture. We refer to the Salem and Rock Island Jeans. Having business in Salem last week, we paid a visit to the large Woolen Factory belonging to F. Fries, Esq., and we cheerfully bear testimony to the beauty and durability of the cloth manufactured in this establishment. If there were enough such cloths manufactured in our State to supply our wants, and our people would foster their own interest by purchasing domestic goods, what large sums of money would be retained in our State, which now go North! Mr. Fries manufactures the various grades of cloth, from coarse, heavy negroes wear, to the finest and nicest qualities.—Greensboro' Patriot.

VINE CULTURE AT THE SOUTH.

In North Carolina, the birth-place of almost all the American vines of high excellence, at the head of which stands the Catawba, introduced to the wine producers' notice by Col. Murray, some fifty years ago, and found by him on the head waters of the Catawba river, in Buncombe county, a grape that has been admitted by Longworth and Axt to be worth, for wine making, far more than all others yet introduced. This grape has heretofore been shamefully neglected in its native State. There are now, however, in Cumberland county, several "public spirited" citizens who intend to live no longer without Catawba wine of their own making, and have thirty acres now in the Catawba in the vicinity of Fayetteville. Certain planters of Mecklenburg, also, are putting in a Catawba vineyard of several acres this fall. It has been cultivated by various persons to a small extent for several years throughout North Carolina, but no extensive vineyard of the Catawba grape, until the last few years, has ever been grown in this State. Dr. Kron, of Attowah, Stanly county, N. C., has cultivated the Catawba, and made most excellent wine for several years from it, but not enough for exportation. Dr. Kron received the past winter from M. Hardy, one hundred and twenty choice varieties of grape, carefully selected from the renowned Luxemburg Gardens near Paris. He has at his Attowah vineyard one hundred and sixteen growing flourishingly, and from being well attended to, many of them will fruit next year. They were selected from the most approved wine grapes with a view to acclimation at the South. Dr. K. will test them and publish and distribute the cuttings for general cultivation at the South, at the earliest day. There are among them also some of the best table grapes of different parts of Europe. Most of them are the identical varieties that produce the famous Tokays, Johannesburgs, Champagnes, Clarets, Sherries and Madeiras, with the Lachryma Christæ wine grapes of Mount Vesuvius.

The Scuppernong grape has been cultivated for more than a century, and wine made from it, but in almost every instance with the addition of sugar and spirit added. It succeeds better in the sandy portion of East Carolina, but grows well every where except in the extreme west. It has been grown as far South and west as the Brazos in Texas, and produced, canopied properly, most prolific crops annually, and if matured perfectly will make a good quality of Sauterne wine without the addition of either Sugar or Spirit.

The Laspeyre, improperly known as Isabella, being named by the Elder Prince of Flushing in 1833 after Mrs. Gibbs, from whom he procured the cuttings, has been raised for fifty years on a limited scale, but is not considered a wine grape, and no extended vineyard, except for table use, has yet been made. Mr. Underhill, of Croton, on the Hudson river, New York, has raised the Laspeyre more extensively than any one in the country, to supply the New York City market. It was first cultivated by old Mr. Laspeyre, in Bladen county, on the Cape Fear, in 1805.

How the Slaves Received Brown's Proposition.—A negro boy, belonging to Mr. Washington, who was taken by the insurgents at the time his master was, when he reached the Ferry was offered a pike, which he refused, when one of the insurgents told him that he was free and should fight the whites. The boy replied, "I don't know anything about being free; I was free enough before you took me, and I'm not going to fight until I see Massa Lewis fighting, and then I fight for him." This boy was among the prisoners in the engine-house.

SALES OF BANK OF CLARENDON STOCK.—On Monday last, Maj. John H. Cook, Auctioneer, sold at auction 25 shares of Bank of Clarendon stock at $59½, cash, and 60 shares of the same at $61, 6 months credit. Par value $50.

A DEMOCRATIC AND BLACK REPUBLICAN LIBEL.—During our late Congressional Canvass, it was made a grave charge against Mr. Gilmer, that he had in his possession a copy of an abolition book written by a miserable renegade named Helper. How Mr. Gilmer got the book, if he ever had it, or whether he had ever read it, was not stated, and did not seem to be material to those who were bent on slandering him. Now we find by the Washington Constitution, the official government paper, of last Saturday, that the Editor of that paper has also a copy of this book of Helper's. What ought to be done to him for so horrible a crime? Will not the denouncers of Mr. Gilmer equally denounce him? We shall see—or rather we shall not see any thing of the sort.

But our object is to show what use the Constitution makes of Helper's book, and to expose his infamous slanders. The Constitution says,—

"In a recent abolition pamphlet prepared by a Mr. Helper, of New York, and widely circulated throughout the country, we find, among other things, an appeal in behalf of Southern men, which indicates on the part of the writer and his associates a confident hope of sympathy and co-operation at the South. We publish it below, and ask for it an attentive perusal as one of the indications of the times. The recent scenes at Harper's Ferry present a stronger appeal to the South for union and action than any words of ours could do. Indeed, the appeal is to good men everywhere, and we have an abiding faith that it will not go unheeded.

"But what shall we say to such men as Botts, Stuart, and Macfarland, of Virginia, of Raynor, Morehead, Stanley, Graves, and Graham, of North Carolina; of Davis and Hoffman, of Maryland; of Blair and Brown, of Missouri; of the Marshals, of Kentucky; and of Etheridge, of Tennessee? All these gentlemen and many others of the same school, entertain, we believe, sentiments similar to those that were entertained by the immortal fathers of the Republic—that slavery is a great moral, social, civil, and political evil, to be got rid of at the earliest practical period—and if they do, in order to secure our votes, it is only necessary for them to 'have the courage of their opinions,' to renounce slavery, and to come out frankly, fairly, and squarely in favor of freedom. To neither of these patriotic sons of the South, nor to any one of the class to which they belong, would we give any offence whatever. In our strictures on the criminality of pro-slavery demagogues we have had heretofore, and shall have hereafter, no sort of reference to any respectable slaveholder—by which we mean any slaveholder who admits the injustice and inhumanity of slavery, and who is not averse to the discussion of measures for its speedy and total extinction. Such slaveholders are virtually on our side."

And the Constitution enforces this "stronger appeal," of which it speaks, by copying a libel on some of the best and most influential Southern men, and thereby endeavoring to throw doubt and suspicion upon them. This is not the way to promote union, as the Constitution well knows. We can scarcely be mistaken in supposing that the object is more to benefit Democracy, with an eye to the spoils, than to promote union at the South.

That Helper and the Constitution libel the Southern men named, is well known to all who know them at all. It is of very little importance what Helper says; but it is shameful that a Southern paper should assist him to give aid and comfort to the abolitionists by countenancing such a story as that "Rayner, Morehead, Stanly, Graves, and Graham," believe "that slavery is a great moral, social, civil and political evil, to be got rid of at the earliest practical period." They are all slaveholders; if they considered it such an evil, would they not wash their hands of it? It is evidently a foul slander, concocted by an abolitionist and adopted by a Locofoco, each alike regardless of truth and reckless of consequences, so only that their party views may be promoted.

GOOD OUT OF EVIL.—We think that a great deal of good will result from the Harper's Ferry affair—much more than could have been anticipated. Besides the natural effect of deterring others from following an example where only disgrace and death are the rewards of the conspirators, where the State and Nation instantly unite their powers to punish them, and where there is an almost universal expression of abhorrence and detestation of their crime—another good result is manifest, in the clear line of separation which it has made between the handful of Abolitionists and the great host of Republicans. That line had been almost obliterated—we in the South have been accustomed to consider it entirely obliterated. To see that it is not so, one has only to read the comments of the Republican papers on the late conspiracy. With the exception of such fanatics as Greely of the Tribune and Bryant of the Evening Post, there is one united and overwhelming burst of condemnation.

And while this ought to lead, and doubtless will lead, to a more kindly spirit between the sections, since it shows that after all we are not so widely separated as had been feared, it will be a death blow to the Presidential aspirations of such ultraists as Seward, and Chase, whose speeches have encouraged outrages like this at Harper's Ferry. The outbreak has come in good time to prevent the Republicans from nominating any man of their stamp.

It is something refreshing to read such paragraphs as the following from the N. Y. Times, which, a year or two ago, was anything but friendly or just to the South:—

"But of one thing we feel certain:—the great mass of the people North, whatever may be their political sentiments or party relations, regard every such attempt to emancipate Southern slaves as that which has just been crushed in Virginia, with horror and execration. They have no sympathy with it or toleration for it. There doubtless are men among them who would not stop at any extremity of violence and outrage to bring about their cherished end. Abolitionists of the school of Gerrit Smith, Fred Douglass and Garrison,—in the excess of their philanthropy and brotherly love, would unquestionably plunge the whole country into one wild abyss of anarchy and blood, for the sake of overthrowing the institution of Slavery. It is not love of the slave but hatred of the white man, that impels them:—and there is no extremity of horror which would give them a moment's pause in their bloody work. There seems reason to believe that this Virginia movement has been prompted, or at least, aided by them. We would not prejudge any man, however obnoxious to suspicion, in so serious a matter,—and nothing but clear and conclusive evidence will lead us to adjudge them guilty. But if they have been guilty of this great crime, not only against innocent individuals but against society and the public peace, we hope they will be punished for it to the extremest measure of their offences. We can pity and perhaps pardon the man, who runs into crime from excess of temporary impulse or the overmastery of uncurbed passion:—but the cold blooded conspirator who sits in security at home, and plots against the lives of thousands of innocent women and children thousands of miles away,—who sends daggers and rifles in quest of blood to vindicate a theory of his own, without the remotest chance of making anybody better or happier by his deeds, is a public enemy, and can hope for neither sympathy nor compassion from the community which he seeks to destroy.

"And while we thus execrate all, of whatever name or section, who have any part in these wild and atrocious crusades against the people of the South, we detest still more cordially the spirit that would use these recent occurrences solely for the promotion of party ends. Murders and conspiracies,—the death of a Senator and the slaughter of fifteen or twenty men,—are matters which touch upon deeper interests and involve higher considerations than those of partisan supremacy. Without doubt the Virginia movement will have an effect upon the public mind which will modify the action of political parties:—but it ought not to be discussed solely from a party point of view. Low as our political contests may have fallen, they have not yet reached a point which will render any party justly responsible for so serious a crime."

LATEST AND IMPORTANT.—The Washington Constitution of Tuesday, at hand this morning, publishes two or three columns of letters from "John Smith" and others of the Harper's Ferry conspirators—the John Smith letters being all in the hand-writing of one of Ossawatomie Brown's sons, are all addressed to John Smith & Sons, and endorsed in the hand-writing of the father. They relate to forwarding boxes, raising money on stock in mining, (which was the pretence on which the farm was rented,) and mention several persons who have "taken stock." Among others is the following letter. The "J. R. G." mentioned is supposed to be Joshua R. Giddings, late member of Congress from that part of Ohio:—

WEST ANDOVER, Ashtabula Co., (Ohio.)
Saturday, Oct. 1, 1859.

FRIEND HENRIE: Since I received Isaac's and yours of September 20th I have been making every effort to raise stock, and am succeeding well. Yesterday I sent draft of $15 to J. M. B. of Chatham with which to get on ANOTHER HAND. Shall soon have enough to send again. Yesterday I returned from a trip to Jefferson and Ashtabula, where I met with some success. Our old friend, J. R. G., took stock to the amount of $3, and, as he was just starting for Ravenna, said he would form an association there. Monday next I shall start for Cleveland. Hope to find a letter from you at Mrs. Sturtevant's. You may depend upon it, I HAVE BEEN, AND AM YET "STRAINING EVERY NERVE" IN FURTHERANCE OF OUR CAUSE. [Ciphers.] Is here and actively working in behalf of the mining operations.

You will have me with you just as soon as I am satisfied I can DO MORE and be of MORE USE THERE than WHERE I AM. Nothing new of special interest. All well.

(In haste) Yours, JOHN SMITH.

Senator Mason of Virginia, who resides near Winchester, and was at Harper's Ferry early in the late excitement there, publishes a statement in Tuesday's Constitution, from which we copy the following paragraphs:—

"The fact is undoubted that not a man, black or white, joined them after they came into Virginia, or gave them aid or assistance in any form."

"It is stated that they put spears or lances in the hands of two or three negroes and compelled them to stand in the character of sentinels at the door of the engine-house, occupied by the incendiaries, but at the first assault made by the citizens the slaves threw away their pikes and escaped to their homes for refuge.

"On the part of the negroes, it is certain that the only emotion evinced by them was of alarm and terror, and their only refuge sought at their master's homes.

"So far as can be discovered not one of the nineteen escaped. I could not correctly ascertain the number killed—some ten or eleven it is known were killed—some were shot in attempting to escape across the river, and their bodies not recovered; five only were captured alive, amongst them their leader, Brown; two of the five are negroes; one, a mulatto, reports that he came from Ohio to join this expedition; the other a black, says that he came from Harrisburg, Pa., with the like purpose; both allege that they were deceived by Brown as to the objects of the expedition.

"Not a slave escaped or attempted to escape during the tumult. Of the few carried off by Cook across the river all escaped from him and came safely back but one, who, it appears, was drowned whilst crossing the river homeward bound."

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Oct. 20.

In this part of New England, with few exceptions, we are down on the Harper's Ferry insurrection. This sad event has done more to advance the cause of conservatism than can be imagined.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

SPIRIT OF THE NORTHERN PRESS.—We continue to observe the tone of the Northern Press on the late Harper's Ferry outrage; and have great pleasure in finding it in the main sound and patriotic. So speak the Boston Courier (Whig,) and the Boston Post (Democratic;) the Cleveland (Ohio) National Democrat; Cincinnati Enquirer (Democratic;) Philadelphia Inquirer, (Republican.)

On the other hand we have the Ohio State Journal, (black Republican,) the Boston Daily Advertiser, (do.)

We mentioned the N. Y. Independent on Monday as a New School Presbyterian paper. We never saw a copy of it, but learn that it is not Presbyterian, but is edited by Congregationalists.

"MEN IN BUCKRAM."—One cannot fail to be reminded of Fallstaff's exploits by the stories brought from Harper's Ferry by the Virginia volunteers on their return from "the seat of war." The Whig learned from some of them that "twelve or fifteen hundred persons were engaged" in the conspiracy; that "twenty-one dozen sharp's rifles were found, together with nine thousand spears or pikes," &c. &c., with a good deal more of like marvelous stories.

It is deplorable to see such exaggerations. The truth is bad enough in this case, without allowing a panic fear to multiply men and spears from ten to fifty fold.

HIGH PRICES FOR LANDS.—Edgecombe county is one of the few parts of North Carolina whose lands approach in price to prices in other States. Elisha Cromwell has sold to Baker Staton his plantation, 1200 acres, 3 miles from Tarboro', for $35,000. H. B. Bryan has sold to Dr. K. H. Dicken his plantation. 1000 acres, 9 miles from town, for $25,000. Three years ago it was sold for $17,000. Dr. Dicken has sold to M. P. Edwards his plantation, 440 acres, 7 miles from town, at $25 per acre. Two years ago he gave $20 an acre for it. And Britton Howell has sold to J. L. Dicken 333 acres at $12 50 per acre.

The truth is, that if farmers elsewhere would follow the example of those in Edgecombe, by improving their lands, there would be no need to move to the South.

Letter to the Editors of the Observer, dated
ROCKINGHAM, Oct. 19, 1859.

DEAR SIRS:—At the Term of the County Court, held here this week, J. T. Bostick resigned the Office of Sheriff, and John J. Bennett was appointed, by the Court, to fill the vacancy.

A melancholy accident occurred in Moore a few days ago. A boy about 13 years of age, the son of John McDonald, while driving mules attached to a Threshing Machine, was kicked in the head by one of them and died instantly.

Terrible and Fatal Explosion.—We regret to hear that the boiler of the steam saw mill owned by Messrs. Walston & Pane, of Edgecombe county, N. C. situated about three miles from Sparta, exploded on Monday last, with terrible and fatal effect. Richard Gilliam and Nathan Pane, of Virginia; Charles Oast, of Wilson, N. C.; and George, a slave, belonging to the estate of Harman Ward, of Edgecombe county, were all instantly killed. We have been unable to gather any further particulars.—Petersburg Express.

DR. FORBES' SECESSION FROM THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.
NEW YORK, Oct. 17, 1859.

Most Rev. John Hughes, D. D., Archbishop, &c.:

MOST REVEREND SIR: It is now nearly ten years since, under your auspices, I laid down my ministry in the Protestant Episcopal Church to submit myself to the Church of Rome. The interval, as you know, has not been idly spent; each day has had its responsibility and duty, and with these have come experience, observation, and the knowledge of many things not so well understood before. The result is, that I feel I have committed a grave error, which, publicly made, should be publicly repaired. When I came to you, it was as I stated, with a deep and conscientious conviction that it was necessary to be in communion with the See of Rome, but this conviction I have not been able to sustain, in face of the fact that by it the natural rights of man and all individual liberty must be sacrificed—not only so, but the private conscience often violated, and one forced, by silence at least, to acquiesce in what is opposed to moral truth and justice. Under these circumstances, when I call to mind how slender is the foundation in the earliest ages of the Church upon which has been reared the present Papal power, I can no longer regard it as legitimately imposing obligations upon me or any one else. I do now therefore by this act, disown and withdraw myself from its alleged jurisdiction. I remain, Most Reverend Sir, your obedient servant,

JOHN MURRAY FORBES, D. D.
Late Pastor of St. Anne's Church, N. Y.

This is the same Dr. Forbes who, while a minister of an Episcopal Church in New York, led off Dr. Ives to the Roman Catholics.

"What were the mob saying?" asked the District Attorney of a Yankee witness down East, in a riot trial.

"Well, they was sorter singing."

"What were they singing about?"

"Well they was singin' about a song."

"What was the song about?"

"As nigh as I kin keep track, they was a tellin a Misses Long (her first name was Lucy) to take her time!"

"You can go."

MARRIED,

In Wilmington, on the 25th inst., by Rev. M. B. Grier, Mr. JOHN McLAURIN to Miss CATHARINE H. BLANKS.

On the 20th ult., at the residence of Stephen Henly, Esq., by the Rev. Stephen Gilmore, Mr. ABNER LASITER, of Chatham county, to Miss P. A. BRAME, of Moore county, formerly of Granville county, N. C.

[This marriage was inaccurately published on the 17th inst. The above names are correct.]

DIED,

October 23d, in Robeson county, Mrs. RUTH ANN, wife of John McInnis, Esq. In this amiable and pious lady, who chose, early in life, Christ as her portion, were blended such excellencies as would cause her loss to be felt in any community. But her loss to her affectionate husband, small children and many friends, we have every reason to believe, is her eternal gain.

"At Home."—The county of Lancaster, Pa., the President's home—cast 11,035 votes at the late election, and gave an anti-Buchanan majority of 4,169! There is scarcely another county in the Union that can serve up such figures.

Sale of Premium Cotton.—On Thursday morning last, at Memphis, Tenn., the eleven bales of cotton which received the cotton factors' premium at the late Tennessee Fair, were sold at auction. The occasion brought together nearly all the cotton men of the city, and the bidding was exceedingly spirited. One bale, raised from the celebrated Randon Silk Cotton seed, sold at 20 cts. per lb. Two bales at 20¼ cts. Three bales sold at 16 cts. Five bales at 17 cents.

Mr. LaMountain's balloon, the Atlantic, which was abandoned by him in the Canadian woods, has been secured and returned to Watertown, somewhat torn, but serviceable. The particulars of the rescue are not given.

Good.—Somebody, speaking of the hurrying propensities of the Yankees, says: "If a big mortar could be constructed, which would throw an immense bomb shell, containing fifteen passengers from St. Louis to Boston, in five minutes, with an absolute certainty that fourteen would be killed by the explosion, tickets for seats by the "Express Bomb Shell Line" would at once be at a premium, each passenger being anxious for the chance to prove himself "the lucky fifteenth."

THE HARPER'S FERRY AFFAIR.

We group together a variety of paragraphs relating to this affair. We might fill this paper with incidents and comments, but will merely give those of particular interest:—

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Oct. 26.

Capt. Cook arrested—His Commission found on his person.—The notorious Capt. Cook, of the Insurrectionary Band of outlaws, has at last been captured beyond a doubt, and has been fully committed to jail to await the requisition of the Governor of Virginia.

He was brought to this town last evening. There is not a doubt of his identity, as a Captain's commission, with prisoner's signature and Clerk's name was found on his person. He came down from the mountains to get provisions, having, from his haggard appearance, suffered greatly from want and exposure.

He admitted that three others of Brown's party are in the mountains, on the strength of which information parties are now out in pursuit of the fugitives.

Cook had on his person a parchment memorandum formerly attached to Mr Washington's person, and says the pistol is in his valise, which he left in the mountains. He was fully armed when arrested, and attempted to make resistance, but being exhausted, was soon captured.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.

Surrender of the Fugitives.—The Governor of Pennsylvania, to-day, issued orders for the surrender of Cook, in prison at Chambersburg, and Hazlitt, at Carlisle, to the authorities of Virginia for trial.

HAGERSTOWN, MD., Oct. 27.

Cook En Route for Charlestown:—Messrs. B. M. Morris and Lieut. Kelly, of the Richmond (Va.) police, have arrived here from Chambersburg, Penn., with John E. Cooke, the Harper's Ferry insurgent. They will reach Charlestown, Va., to-night, with their prisoner.

BOSTON, Oct. 26.

Legal Counsel for John Brown.—A proposition is now before the abolitionists of Worcester to raise money by contribution for the purpose of obtaining counsel for Ossawatamie Brown, at his coming trial. Rev. T. W. Higginson acts as treasurer.

EXAMINATION OF THE PRISONERS.

CHARLESTOWN, VA., Oct. 25.

The trial of Brown and other Harper's Ferry conspirators commenced here to-day, in the Magistrate's Court. Colonel Davenport was the Presiding Justice, and seven Magistrates were associated with him on the Bench.

At 10½ o'clock the Sheriff was directed to bring in the prisoners, who were conducted from the jail under a guard of eighty armed men. A guard was also stationed around the court. The court house was bristling with beyonets on all sides.

Charles B. Harding, Esq., acted as Attorney for the County, assisted by Andrew Hunter, Counsel for the Commonwealth.

Brown seemed weak and haggard, with eyes swollen from the effects of wounds on the head. Coppie is uninjured. Stephens seemed less injured than Brown, but looked haggard and depressed. Both have a number of wounds on the head.

John Copland is a bright mulatto, about twenty-five years old, and Green, a dark negro, aged about thirty.

The Court then enquired if the prisoners had counsel, and Brown addressed the Court as follows:

"Virginians!—I did not ask for any quarter at the time I was taken; I did not ask to have my life spared. The Governor of the State of Virginia tendered me his assurance that I should have a fair trial; and under no circumstances whatever will I be able to have a fair trial. If you seek my blood, you can have it at any moment without this mockery of a trial. I have had no counsel. I have not been able to advise with any one. I know nothing about the feelings of my fellow-prisoners, and am utterly unable to attend in any way to my own defence. My memory don't serve me. My health is insufficient, though improving. There are mitigating circumstances that I would urge in our favor, if a fair trial is to be allowed us. But if we are to be forced with a mere form—a trial for execution—you might spare yourselves that trouble. I am ready for my fate. I do not ask a trial. I beg for no mockery of a trial—no insult—nothing but that which conscience gives, or coward ice would drive you to practice. I ask again to be excused from the mockery of a trial. I do not even know what the special design of this examination is. I do not know what is to be the benefit of it to the commonwealth. I have now little further to ask, other than that I may not be foolishly insulted only as cowardly barbarians insult those who fall into their power.

At the conclusion of Brown's remarks, the Court assigned Charles J. Faulkner and Lowson Botts as counsel for the prisoners.

Mr. Harding addressed Brown, and asked him if he was willing to accept Messrs. Faulkner and Botts as his counsel.

Mr. Brown replied: I wish to say that I have sent for counsel; I did apply through the advice of some persons here, to some persons whose names I do not now recollect, to act as counsel for me, and I have sent for other counsel who have had no possible opportunity to see me. I wish for counsel if I am to have a trial, but if I am to have nothing but the mockery of a trial, as I said, I do not care anything about counsel; it is unnecessary to trouble any gentleman with that duty.

Mr. Harding: You are to have a fair trial.

Mr. Brown: I am a stranger here; I do not know the disposition or character of the gentlemen named. I have applied for counsel of my own, and doubtless could have them, if I am not, as I said before, to be hurried to execution before they can reach here. But if that is the disposition that is to be made of me, all this trouble and expense can be saved.

Mr. Harding: The question is, do you desire the aid of Messrs Faulker and Botts as your counsel? Please to answer yes or no.

Mr. Brown. I cannnot regard this as an examination under any circumstances. I would prefer that they should exercise their own pleasure. I feel as if it was a matter of very little account to me. If they had designed to assist me as counsel, I should have wanted an opportunity to consult them at my leisure.

The Court issued a peremptory order that the Press should not publish detailed testimony, as it would render the getting of a jury before the Circuit Court impossible.

Seven witnesses were then examined, who stated facts already well known.

The preliminary examination being concluded, the Court remanded the prisoners for trial before the Circuit Court.

There is an evident intention to hurry the trial through and execute the prisoners as soon as possible, fearing attempts to rescue them. In the case of servile insurrection thirty days are not required between conviction and execution, as in other capital convictions.

The Circuit Court of Jefferson County, Judge Richard Parker on the bench, assembled at two o'clock. The Grand Jury were called, and the Magistrate's Court reported the result of the examination in the case of Captain Brown and the other prisoners. The Grand Jury retired with the witnesses for the State. At five o'clock they returned into Court and stated that they had not finished the examination of witnesses, and they were therefore discharged until ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

It is rumored that Brown is desirous of making a full statement of his motives and intentions, through the press, but the court has refused reports.

Captain Brown's object in refusing the aid of counsel is, that if he has counsel he will not be allowed to speak himself, and Southern counsel will not be willing to express his views.

The reason given for hurrying the trial is, that the people of the whole country are kept in a state of excitement, and a large armed force is required to prevent attempts at rescue.

On Wednesday the 26th, the Grand Jury brought in true bills, First, For conspiring with negroes to produce insurrection. Second, For treason to the Commonwealth, and Third, For murder.

Mr. Faulkner having gone home, Mr. Green was assigned as Counsel in his stead, by desire of Brown. The prisoners desired to be tried separately. Brown asked for a delay of two or three days, for his counsel to arrive, and Mr. Botts urged the request as reasonable. Mr. Hunter, prosecutor, opposed it. There had been ample time for counsel to arrive. A physician was examined, who thought Brown quite well enough to go on with the trial understandingly.

The trial was commenced. A jury was empannelled during the afternoon.

Stevens declares that he does not desire to be defended by Northern counsel, preferring Southern, and that the Court should name them. There is a decided sympathy for Stevens, not only on account of his sufferings, but that he has shown none of that vindictiveness and hardihood that characterizes Brown.

M. Johnson, U. S. Marshal of Cleaveland, Ohio, arrived this morning. He visited the prisoners, and identified Copeland as a fugitive from justice in Ohio. His object is supposed to be to ferret out testimony implicating the other parties.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.

Reported Attempt to Rescue the Harper's Ferry Insurrectionists.—Considerable excitement was caused at Federick City this afternoon, by a report that a large body of Abolitionists had crossed from Pennsylvania to Virginia, with the intention of rescuing the Harper's Ferry insurrectionists. A military company left immediately, to assist in the defense of the Charleston jail.

The whole affair is believed to be a hoax.

Further Developments.—It is stated that the Hon. Alex. R. Boteler, member elect to Congress from this district, has collected from fifty to one hundred letters from citizens in the neighborhood of Brown's house, who searched it before the arrival of the marines. The letters are in the possession of Andrew Hunter, Esq., who has also a large number of letters obtained from Brown's house by the marines and other parties. It is requested that their contents shall not be published until the trial of the prisoners. Among them is a roll of the conspirators, containing forty-seven signatures; also a receipt from Horace Greeley for letters, &c., received from Brown, and an accurately traced map from Chambersburg to Brown's house; copies of letters from Brown stating that the arrival of too many men at once would excite suspicion, they should arrive singly; a letter from Merriam stating that of the 20,000 wanted G. S. was good for one-fifth. Brown told them to let the women write the letters, and not the men. There is also a pathetic letter from Elizabeth Leeman to her brother. Also, a letter from J. E. Cook, stating that "the Maryland election is about to come off, the people will become excited, and we will get some of the candidates that will join our side." Then follows four pages in cypher. There is also a letter from Col. Craig of the Ordnance Department, Washington, answering inquiries as to the disposition of the United States troops, &c. There is also a collection of autographs. Important papers are also in the possession of the State and General Government.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.

Another Victim of Folly and Crime.—F. J. Merriam of Boston, who had some connection with the affair at Harper's Ferry, but who escaped before the taking of the Arsenal, has since died of his wounds. He was hurriedly buried in this State by fugitive slaves.

Mr. Giddings, who is in Philadelphia, writes a letter in which he says "that Brown never consulted him in regard to his Virginian expedition, or any other expedition or matter whatever." In an address in Philadelphia, on Sunday morning, by Mr. Giddings, when mention of the name of Gov. Wise was made, and met by cries of derision from the audience, he hastened to say that he had reason to think highly of that gentleman, for his honorable support in a trying moment in his (Giddings) career.

Indignation against Gov. Wise.—The Harper's Ferry people are indignant at the language employed by Gov. Wise, in censuring them for allowing the Armory to be taken, and think the papers have not given them proper credit for their efforts to repel the invaders. The citizens, they say, did all that was done—drove Brown's party into the engine house, and kept them there, and not a fillibuster was killed, wounded or captured by the uniformed militia, to whom all the credit has been given by the newspapers. They talk of holding a meeting to vindicate the honor of the town.

JUST VIEWS.—The N. Y. Times says,—

"These men will doubtless be hung for the crime they have committed. Conceding their guilt, it is not easy to complain of its penalty. Their crime was the most heinous which can be committed against a community, and the fact that they believed themselves to be doing right cannot be admitted as a bar to punishment, however it may modify our impressions of their personal culpability. We cannot think the ferocious tone generally held towards them by the Southern Press likely to be of service to the Southern cause. It only tends to make these men martyrs, and to screen their enterprise from the just detestation and abhorrence which it everywhere inspires.

"Probably strenuous efforts will be made on the trial to trace this plot to its origin and through all its ramifications. It is generally believed in the South to have had very extended and formidable support in the Northern States. We believe this to be an error: but if there is any such plot at the North, we shall be very glad to have it exposed by the developments of this trial. It is not at all likely that any such crime can be brought home to Northern men in this connection as will warrant Gov. Wise in demanding their surrender; it is only "fugitives from justice" who can be thus demanded, and the use of this word implies that their crime must have been committed within the State from which the demand proceeds. But public sentiment will punish, severely and permanently, any man who shall be proved to have aided in the nefarious crime for which Brown and his accomplices will suffer in person."

CHARLESTOWN, Oct. 26.

The Armory at Harper's Ferry.—It is stated here, positively, that the Federal Government has decided not to strengthen the guards at Armories.

The trial of the fillibusters at New Orleans has resulted in their acquittal. It is to be presumed that the Philadelphia will now be permitted to depart unmolested, notwithstanding her belligerent cargo.

Supporting the Nominee.—The Southern Democratic papers, generally, in reply to the question, "will you support Senator Douglas for the Presidency in 1860, if he should be the Democratic candidate?" reply that they have some serious objections to Douglas' "Squatter-Sovereignty" views, but that they "will support the nominee of the Charleston Convention."

This means that they will support the nominee, even though the nominee should be Douglas. If by any manner of means, the Charleston nominee should turn out to be Martin Van Buren, or John P. Hale, or Joshua Giddings, they would support him, too.—Richmond Whig.

A Mere Pretext.—Many of the Southern Democracy say they don't like Douglas, but they will support him in preference to a Black Republican. This is a mere evasion. They are anxious to support Douglas, because they think he can be elected, and nobody else can. Availibility is their only test. The trick of such a declaration as this is exposed by the Charleston Mercury in the following scorching article:

The pretext that they will support him in preference to a Black Republican, is, of course, nothing but a pretext. He is just as bad as a Black Republican. He co-operated with, and obtained for the Black Republicans their triumph over the South in the rejection of Kansas from the Union. Eli Thayer and whole hosts of Black Republicans look upon his policy as the very best to secure the exclusion of slavery from our territories, and their settlement and appropriation by the free States. But if this were not so, the alternative they are pleased to make between Douglas and a black republican, is a mere fiction to suit their policy. There is no such alternative in the nature of things. If really intent on maintaining and preserving the rights of the South, they would naturally support a man for the Presidency who truly and faithfully reflected this policy. When, therefore, they refuse to set up and support such a man and support Douglas, the shallow game is apparent. They are playing a part—the best game they can in the South, to suit the end they have in view—the elevation of Douglas to the Presidency. To make Mr. Douglas President of the United States is of more consequence than the maintenance of the rights and interests of the South. It is a mere make-weight to lift them into power. They are the best Douglas sharp-shooters, because they fight behind trees.

Left.—We learn that a man who had been in Georgetown, S. C., during a good part of the last Summer on the plea of health, left last Friday, it being intimated to him that it might save trouble to the community and danger to himself. He was a man of fine personal appearance, remarkably intelligent, and of gentlemanly manners and address. Circumstances left no doubt of his character as an emissary of those opposed to the institutions of the community in which he was a sojourner. The Harper's Ferry affair has aroused Southern vigilance, and the business of emissaries will be found "extra hazardous."

Wilmington Journal.

The Retort Courteous.—Old Prof. S. was one of the instructors of Dartmouth College years ago, and was withal, about as blunt and straightforward a specimen of humanity as ever walked, being considered a little crabbed by intimates. One day in the early summer he was taking his usual stroll around the village, keeping his "eye out" for any "fast" student who might be off duty, when he chanced to meet Mr. Page, a sturdy farmer from East Hanover, with a load of wood trudging along the dusty street barefooted and coatless; but he was a fine representative of "Nature's noblemen."

"Hullo, Mr. Page," growled the Professor, "I should like to know if all the people at East Hanover go barefoot."

"Part on 'em do, and the rest on 'em mind their own business," was the rather settling reply.

The Spoons.—Some time since a Catholic servant girl stole a lot of silver spoons from a Protestant preacher in whose family she was a servant. A correspondent says something like the following ensued:

To the Protestant Preacher—I send your spoons back. If your servant had been a Protestant, you never would have got them again.

Yours, CATHOLIC PRIEST.

To the Catholic Priest—I thank you for the spoons. If the servant had been a Protestant, she never would have stolen them.

The Monster Balloon.—The balloon or air ship of T. S. Carlincourt Lowe, was taken to reservoir square on Saturday, and it was expected that the process of inflation would commence to-day, but owing to a delay in putting in the gas apparatus the inflation will not commence until Wednesday, when the exhibition will be opened.

The Air Ship when inflated and in order will resemble an ordinary balloon, with the exception of the appendages to the car. The car is a basket of wicker work, six feet in diameter and four feet deep, having an aperture in the botton, about two feet in diameter, through which to pass to the boat beneath. The cords which attach this car to the balloon pass up to a hoop, some six or eight feet above, and are covered with the canvass, so as to make a wall, having windows cut in it. This enclosure is intended to protect the passengers from the cold. In this car will also be placed a lime stove, and the provisions for the voyage. At a distance of some twenty feet below the car, the boat will be suspended. This is one of Francis' Metallic Life boats, built at Greenpoint, thirty feet long, eight feet beam and four feet deep. In this will be placed the Caloric engine, and the machinery, consisting of a propeller, rudder, &c.

The balloon itself is one hundred and sixty-two feet in diameter, and has a capacity for eight hundred and twelve thousand cubic feet of gas.

The gas will be supplied from the street mains, and passes through the largest stationary meter ever used for a private consumer. This meter is of cast iron, eight feet in diameter, and is capable of registering half a million cubic feet of gas per day. It is estimated that the inflation will occupy some twelve days. A high fence has been erected around the square to prevent "dead heads" from seeing without paying for the luxury

N. Y. Commercial.

The Great Ship.—The report of the special correspondent of this paper will be found to contain a very thorough, scientific description of the trial trip of the Great Eastern, with other details of great interest to the general reader. The general conclusion the writer seems to have attained is, that, while the expectations of the public, unduly wrought up by incompetent authorities, are disappointed, those of the projectors are abundantly verified. Thus while the vessel cannot be advantageously employed for a mere trans-Atlantic service, it is perfectly adapted to the long Australian voyage for which it was designed. It cannot attain a speed of thirty miles an hour, but it can accomplish a rate of fifteen miles. It cannot make a trip from Liverpool to New York in five days; but it can accomplish it in ten. It does not wholly obviate the discomforts of a sea-voyage; it does not go through the waves instead of over them; but it does pitch and roll so slightly as to cause little serious distress to the passenger. Other points of interest are developed by the trial. The security of the vessel is imperfect; the bulkheads are neither fire-tight nor water-tight; important valves are not as they should be, automatic; the apparatus for super-heating steam seems only to be available at the cost of grave peril. The machinery is very far from having that completeness and that proportion people have been led to anticipate. The boilers are inadequate to furnish the power required by the engines. There is a want of harmony in the working of the screw and side-wheel engines; and the donkey-engines are by no means as serviceable as certain American inventions of the same kind. The machinery for raising and handling the anchors is likewise of indifferent value. On the other hand the vessel is under perfect control of the helm, with no greater amount of force than is required by a first-rate frigate. The consumption of coal is moderate; and the engines work with none of the stiffness of new machinery. The opinion formed by the writer is thus, upon the whole, not unfavorable to its claims. Indeed, he does not hesitate to pronounce it "a success."

The gratifying intelligence also reaches us by this channel, that the American trip of the Great Eastern is not to be deferred until Spring. The Directors have determined to dispatch her on, or very shortly after, Nov. 1.—New York Times.

Growth of the United States.—At the taking of the first census under the Federal Constitution, in 1790, the population of the United States amounted to 3,929,827. At intervals of ten years the census has been taken regularly, and the result at each period is as follows:

Census of	1790,	3,929,827
Do.	1800,	5,305,925
Do.	1810,	7,239,814
Do.	1820,	9,638,131
Do.	1830,	12,866,020
Do.	1840,	17,069,453
Do.	1850,	23,191,176

The census will again be taken in 1860, and will show a population within the limits of the United States of more than 32,000,000.—Rich. Whig.

The American Minister Really at Pekin—The Treaty Ratified.—The Jason, from Galway the 17th October, arrrived last night.

The China mail had reached England, and the details of the news state that the American Minister had been courteously received at Pekin, and expected to be able to send home the ratified treaty by the next mail.

The latest rumors are to the effect that the Great Eastern would sail for America about the 24th of October.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 17, P. M.—The cotton market continues steady. The sales of Saturday and to-day foot up 16,000 bales, including 3,000 on speculation and for export.

THREE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

FARTHER POINT, Oct. 29th.

The Nova Scotian has arrived with Liverpool dates to the 19th inst. Accounts from Zurich state that a treaty of peace had been signed.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 19th.—Cotton—Sales for three days 24,000 bales. Market unchanged.

From Washington.—Despatches were received to-day at the Department of State from Col. Pickens. He states that reliable intelligence had been received by the Russian government from China, that Minister Ward had been received at Pekin by the Emperor. The news is credited at St. Petersburg.

Bonnets.—The last word from Paris about bonnets is important, as indicating a change. Bonnets it is said, will be worn larger, coming more over the forehead, and the crowns are higher up on the back of the head.

The "Vatican" at Rome, the palace of the Pope, is a pile of buildings covering a space 1,200 feet in length and 1,600 in breadth, on one of the seven hills of Rome. The site was once the garden of the Emperor Nero. Early in the sixth century the Bishop of Rome erected there an humble dwelling, and this has been added to from time to time by the Popes, until it is now one of the most spacious and magnificent palaces, stocked with paintings, statues, books, and antiquities of the rarest kind.

The amount of salt manufactured at Syracuse, New York, is seven millions of bushels yearly. The annual revenue to the manufacturers is three millions of dollars, and the income to the State seventy thousand dollars, as a tax of one cent per bushel is charged by the State on all salt manufactured. The whole amount of salt manufactured in the United States is sixteen millions of bushels yearly.

WHEELER & WILSON'S

SEWING MACHINES.

THE Scientific American says:—"We are having a great many inquiries for Sewing-Machines from various parts of the country, and as we cannot conveniently reply to them all by mail, we have thought it proper to state our opinion in regard to them in this public manner. We have used Wilson's patent, manufactured by the Wheeler & Wilson Manufacturing Company, No. 505 Broadway, and we can say, in regard to it, that it is without a rival. It is simple, not easily put out of order when in proper hands, and in point of effectiveness and finish, no other machine stands ahead of it. We state this much in regard to this excellent machine, upon our own responsibility."

An Old Man.—We learn that a faithful old servant named Jacob, belonging to Mrs. Laughinghouse of Pitt, died on Friday last, at the advanced age of 105 years. Some are of opinion that he was 112. He was highly esteemed by the large family circle in which he has been owned, for many years, as was shown by the large number of white persons who attended his funeral, and the decent manner in which he was interred. Jacob had been a member of the Methodist Church for years, and died in peace. We are told that it is not known that he ever suffered from loss of sight, and that he retained it until his death.—Wash. (N. C.) Dispatch.

DIVIDEND.—The Bank of Wadesborough has declared a dividend of 5 per cent.

THE GREENE MONUMENT.—The Greensborough Times, noticing with warm commendation the Lecture of the Rev. Dr. Caruthers on "The Life and Character of Gen. Greene," suggests that the Dr. might perhaps be induced to repeat the Lecture in other parts of the State, and adds, that "the subscription for the Monument amounted to over $600 for the week." This is encouraging.

THE RALEIGH STANDARD.—The last Standard contains an address to its readers by Mr. Holden, announcing that from that date he will be its sole Editor, Mr. Wilson having voluntarily retired, but is engaged to manage the business department of the office. Mr. Wilson appends a valedictory address.

NEW HANOVER SUPERIOR COURT.—A man named Williams, convicted of the larceny of a pocket-book, was sentenced to receive forth lashes forthwith, forty at December County Court, and to remain in jail until the costs be paid. The first instalment to him has already been paid.

Highsmith, of Sampson, charged with putting his mark upon hogs not the property of himself, was tried and acquitted.

A youth named Runciman submitted to a verdict of manslaughter for killing a negro boy belonging to Robert H. Cowan, Esq.

Roger A. Pryor, democrat, has been elected to Congress from the Petersburg district, Virginia, in place of Mr. Goode, dec'd, by about 800 majority over Col. Goode, independent democrat.

SOMETHING TO WEAR.—The New York papers publish a list of the wedding outfit of the beautiful young belle of 19, who lately married the rich and ugly old Cuban of 65. The list embraces 106 dresses, and 8 bonnets, 83 pairs of shoes and slippers, 48 handkerchiefs, (some of them at $200 and $250 a piece,) 9 parasols, 72 pairs of stockings, 168 pairs of gloves, with a vast variety of unmentionable things, which, however, are very plainly put down in the N. Y. papers. Stewart's bill for what he furnished was $28,000. Poor woman, how she will be bothered to know what to wear.

GEORGIA LANDS.—A large Map of the Georgia lands advertised to-day, may be seen at this office.

ADVERTISEMENTS.—The crowd of advertisements with which we are favored will, we hope, be a sufficient apology to some of our Editorial brethren for neglecting to insert their Prospectuses, as requested.

THE HARPER'S FERRY AFFAIR.—We refer the reader to the preceding page for further particulars on this all-absorbing subject.

Besides which, the last mail has brought new and extraordinary developments, implicating Senators Seward, Sumner and Hale, Horace Greely, Dr. Howe of Boston, Gerrit Smith, and F. B. Sanborn. This is disclosed by a publication made by a Col. Hugh Forbes, (an Englishman,) who was for a long time regularly employed, in conjunction with Brown, by the abolition party, and with the direct and known purpose of operating in the South against the South. Forbes says that he and Brown differed as to the best mode of doing this. He favored the process of stealing the slaves, and only killing the masters in case of pursuit and necessity; whilst Brown was bent on doing it according to his Harper's Ferry mode. Forbes quit the business only because his villainous employers failed to pay him enough to support his wife and children, according to their contract. And he now makes this publication in revenge. The letters, consisting of his own and others, written during the past 22 months, are regarded as undoubtedly genuine by the N. Y. papers.

The following is one of the letters, being from Forbes to Dr. Howe:

WASHINGTON, May 6, 1858.

To Dr. S. G. HOWE, M. D., Boston, Mass.: On Saturday (1st May) I had an interview with Senator Wm. H. Seward, of New York, having been introduced to him through a letter from a leading abolitionist, Dr. Bailey, of the Era. I went fully into the whole matter, in all its bearings. He expressed regret that he had been told, and said that he in his position, ought not to have been informed of the circumstances. In part I agree with him and in part I differ. I regret that the misconduct of the New Englanders should have forced me to address myself to him; but being now enlightened on the subject, he cannot well let this business continue in its present crooked condition, instead of causing it to be "put straight," both as regards my children's situation as well as the cotton speculation of the humanitarians.

As the N. Y. Journal of Commerce says,

"Mr. Seward expressed regret,—for what? Not that such a scheme had been concocted; not that one section of the Union was to be arrayed in conflict against the other; not that the rights of the people of Sovereign States were to be assailed, their property stolen, and their lives placed in jeopardy; for all this he expressed no regret, nor vouchsafed a word of condemnation. But the expressed regret that he had been told, and said that he in his position ought not to have been informed of the circumstances." These are the sentiments of a Senator of the United States; a man sworn to support the Constitution and laws, and trusted as the representative of the State of New York, in the highest and most dignified body in the national government. Ought not to have been told! Really, this is an outrage upon honesty and patriotism, a winking at treason, scarcely less culpable than the acts of Brown himself. And this same Senator Seward is the trusted leader of a great political party, whose speeches and whose counsel to his followers, teach the same doctrines which Brown has attempted to carry to their practical conclusion.

"Mark date, May 1st, 1858, almost eighteen months before the outbreak at Harper's Ferry, Wm. H. Seward, the leader of the Republican party in the Union, was informed of the plans and system proposed, and instead of indignantly denouncing it, he regretted that he had been told, and six months afterwards, made a speech at Rochester virtually endorsing and encouraging the scheme."

The N. Y. Times says,—

"There seems to be no doubt that Dr. Howe, Mr. Sanborn and some others were familiar with the scheme, and gave it their active encouragement, and that Forbes disclosed it in more or less detail to Gov. Seward, Mr. Sumner, Gov. Chase, of Ohio, Gov. Fletcher, of Vermont, and Amos Lawrence of Boston, though these gentlemen do not seem to have taken any active part in the affair, or to have given it any countenance or support."

As to the trial of Brown, we have by the last mail the particulars up to Friday night. George B. Hoyt, of the Boston counsel for Brown, arrived that morning and was admitted by the Court, but said that for the present he would take no part in the case. Gov. Willard of Indiana, brother-in-law of Cook, accompanied by J. E. McDonald, Attorney General of Indiana, also arrived, and had an interview with Cook.

A despatch from Akron, Ohio, being read, stating that Brown's family were subject to insanity, he said he was not insane, and rejected such a plea with contempt.

Among the evidence read was a letter from J. R. Giddings, in reply to one from Brown, and stating that he would be pleased to see him.

John Copeland, the mulatto prisoner, from Oberlin, Ohio, has made a full confession to U. S. marshals of Va., and Ohio. He has given the names of the parties at Oberlin, who induced him to go to Harper's Ferry, who furnished the money for his expenses, &c. He also states that a movement of a similar character was contemplated in Kentucky at about the same time. Many persons in Northern Ohio, whose names have not heretofore been mentioned, are implicated. His confession is withheld until the trial is over by order of Gov. Wise.

A letter from Captain Brown to one of his sons, dated April 16th, 1859, detailing a visit to Gerrit Smith, at Peterboro', which he regarded as highly encouraging. It says that Smith gave him $180; that he also, at his house, received a note that he considered good for $200 more, and that Smith had written to his friends at the East, saying that two thousand dollars must be raised for Brown, of which he himself would agree to furnish one-fifth. There is also notice of a draft from the Cashier of the New York State Bank for $100, sent him by direction of Gerrit Smith. This is dated "Albany, August 29th, 1859." The examination to-day by the U. S. Marshal settles the fact that this movement had long been maturing; that many prominent men in the Northern States have given money and influence in its behalf, and that when the facts are made public an unparalleled sensation may be expected.

We are surprised to see that the N. Y. Journal of Commerce advises that Brown and his murderous crew shall not be hanged, but sent to the penitentiary. If there were any need, we would protest against such a course. They deserve hanging, if ever any persons did, and about that we have no dobut.

A GOOD SIGN.—George W. Curtis, one of the most attractive Lecturers, who heretofore drew full houses, does not now secure sufficient audiences in Brooklyn to pay expenses, for the reason that he is an abolitionist.

POLITICAL EFFECT.—A prominent politician in Philadelphia, who has been traveling in the interior of Pennsylvania, writes in a private letter which found its way into the N. Y. Times, that the Harper's Ferry affair has excited a great amount of indignation; that it will greatly damage the Republicans, and help Mr. Douglas. He adds that the friends of the Administration have modified their hostility to Mr. Douglas, and say he can carry five States that no other man can carry, and without which no Democrat can be elected.

Yes, Douglas is "worse than Seward," and Democrats would "as soon vote for Seward or Giddings;" but they will vote for him or any body else that is likely to secure the spoils to the party.

BLEEDING THE PARTY.—A N. Y. paper publishes a Circular from P. Cagger, Secretary of the Democratic Committee of that State, calling for money to carry on the next political campaign, and closing as follows:—

"An assessment was made upon you by the committee of $100, which may be remitted to Dean Richmond, Esq., its chairman, or to the undersigned. Respectfully yours,
"P. CAGGER, Secretary."

An assessment! The order is as imperative as the Sheriff's demand for State Taxes. Every office holder is expected to pay up, even if he has to add so much to his account of "pickings and stealings."

SONS OF NORTH CAROLINA.—The Washington Dispatch notices the circumstance that there were in the late Episcopal General Convention four natives of Newbern, N. C., viz: Bishop C. S. Hawks of Missouri, Rev. Dr. Hawks of New York, Rev. Wm. N. Hawks of Columbus, Ga., and Hon. Edward Stanly of California.

Yes, this is a remarkable fact, and it is also remarkable that all the four were sent there by other States than North Carolina.

We would like to know how many natives of this State were in that Convention. Of the 37 Bishops, no less than five were born and educated here, viz: Bishops Green of Mississippi, Davis of South Carolina, Hawks of Missouri, Scott of Oregon, and Polk of Lou.

MURDER.—Mr. F. H Crawford, of Anson county, was killed by D. Melton, his brother-in-law, near Maysville, S. C., on the 20th inst. They had been drinking.

SAD ACCIDENT.—A little negro boy belonging to Thos. Little, Esq. near Wadesborough, was killed on the 20th inst., by the accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of his young master. The hammer of the lock struck a limb, and fell, discharging the gun.

MORE STATE BONDS.—Treasurer Courts wishes to sell $300,000 by the 28th November. For the sake of the State we help him to give notice of the fact.

THE CALIFORNIA SENATORSHIP.—Every arrival from the land of gold shows that the great question now agitating the public mind is the successorship to Senator Broderick. It is said that there are "a hundred candidates," but we have not seen a longer list than the following, which is furnished by the last arrival:—

John B. Weller, M. S. Lathum, J. P. Hoge, J. W. Denver, James A. McDougal, John Nugent, N. E. Whitesides, Volney E. Howard, B. F. Washington, S. W. Inge, T. J. Henley; Frederick Billings, R. A. Thompson, W. T. Barbour and Ferris Forman.

Only fifteen named candidates for the U. S. Senate in this little State. We suppose that the other eighty-five were so obscure that their names could not be recollected, or that they were too bad and low to be allowed a place on the list. It is thought that Gov. Weller will not fill the vacancy, but leave it till the Legislature meets; and this for several reasons: 1st. He wants the office himself, and it would not look well to appoint himself. 2d. He would offend the 99 unsuccessful candidates by appointing the one fortunate man. 3d. These 99 might have sufficient influence to defeat his own election by the Legislature. 4th. It would scarcely look well for him to be a candidate against a man appointed by himself.

The other candidates are all anxious that he should make the appointment, for the successful candidate would get several thousand dollars of mileage, even if he should hold the seat but two or three weeks.

Weller himself left Ohio "under a cloud" some years ago, but California is not very nice about matters of that kind.

TURN ABOUT.—The President having no Whigs in office to remove, keeps himself in practice by turning out Douglas Democrats. The latest case is the removal of J. L. Faran, Postmaster at Cincinnati, (and editor of the Enquirer,) and the appointment of J. L. Vattier in his place.

It is stated Faran was one of Mr. Buchanan's warmest supporters for the nomination three years ago, and that Vattier was then equally warm for Pierce, voting for him all the time.

INDICTMENT OF A "COMMON SCOLD."—At Anderson (S. C.) Superior Court, last week, the case of "the State vs. Nancy Stevenson" came on before Judge Munro, when Col. Orr, ex-Congressman, made a brief but able argument in favor of a motion to quash the indictment on the ground that scolding is not an indictable offence in South Carolina. Solicitor Reed argued the other side; when the Judge decided in favor of the motion, "that portion of the common law relating to this offence being obsolete in South Carolina." The Anderson Gazette says,—

"We think that the thanks of the ladies are certainly due the ex-Speaker for his able argument in defence of woman, and to the Court for wiping out the offence in this State. As far as was ascertained, this is the third indictment that has ever been preferred in the United States for the offence of scolding, and we hope it will be the last, for it is invading one of the dearest rights of woman, and is in truth an abridgement of the liberty of speech in the fairer sex. The tongue is their principal weapon both of defence and offence, and as Irving has very facetiously said, it is the only edged tool that becomes sharper by constant use."

Land for Sale.

HAVING purchased land in Alabama, I am anxious to sell, and will give a good bargain in my Plantation on Ashpole Swamp in Robeson County, joining the lands of Wiley Alford, John Purcell, and others, containing nearly one thousand acres, and as the land is nearly equally divided by said swamp, there might be two good settlements, and I would sell it that way if it would suit the purchasers. I deem it unnecessary to say anything about the quality of the land, as a purchaser would be certain to judge for himself.

An Agency for the Sale of WM. KNABE & CO'S CELEBRATED PIANOS,

ESTABLISHED IN WILMINGTON, N. C.

HAVING secured the Agency for the sale of the above unrivalled instruments, we invite the attention of all who may want a FIRST CLASS PIANO (and no other is worth buying) to the fact, and respectfully solicit the most intelligent and critical examination of the instruments now on exhibition. These Pianos have secured more Premiums than any other manufacture. They are fully endorsed by such names in the musical world as Thalberg, Strakosh, Satter, Vieuxtempts, beside the most distinguished Professors and Amateurs in the country.

There are hundreds of families in North Carolina where these Pianos are used. We name a few out of Wilmington: Hon. L. O'B. Branch, S. W. Cole, Esq., Gen. G. M. Leach, Carolina Female College, Salem Academy, Rev. R. Burwell, Hillsboro', Rev. T. Campbell, Salisbury, &c.

In Wilmington we refer to the following gentlemen who have Knabe's Pianos in use: Geo. Myers, Esq., F. D. Poisson, Esq., Griffith J. McRee, Esq., and others. We deliver these Pianos in Wilmington at the published rates of the Manufacturers. Every instrument has the full iron frame, and is fully warranted.

One thing we wish distinctly understood, ☞ They have never failed to secure the HIGHEST PREMIUMS, whenever brought in competition with others!

Pianos now in store, just received, and can be delivered immediately, by

RICHARDSON'S IRISH LINENS, DAMASKS, DIAPERS, &C.

CONSUMERS of Richardson's Linens, and those desirous of obtaining the genuine goods, should see that the articles they purchase are sealed with the full name of the firm, RICHARDSON, SONS & OWDEN, as a guarantee of the soundness and durability of the goods.

This caution is rendered essentially necessary as large quantities of inferior and defective Linens are prepared, season after season, and sealed with the name of RICHARDSON, by Irish Houses, who, regardless of the injury thus inflicted alike on the American consumer and the manufacturers of the genuine goods, will not readily abandon a business so profitable, while purchasers can be imposed on with goods of a worthless character.
